RECONSTRUCTION

After the Civil War

by John Hope Franklin. A noted historian examines the many over-simplifications and exaggerations that have distorted our view of post-Civil War problems in the South. Working with the latest research in the field, he has drawn Reconstruction as a tributary of the main stream of American history, with its source in the ante-bellum period. Illus. A volume in the Chicago History of American Civilization Series, Daniel J. Boorstin, Ed. $5.00

North of Slavery

by Leon F. Litwack. The position of the Negro in the ante-bellum North affords striking comparisons with that of the Negro in the twentieth century South. Then, as now, southerners resented the "holier-than-thou" attitude of northern critics who maintained a double standard in racial relations. How the North resolved, or failed to resolve, its integration problems should be particularly instructive in the present crisis. $6.00
